Where to start...

If you're not sure what will suit you or even what kind of bob to go for first, start by looking through magazines and see which of your favourite stars has a cut you could see yourself with or really admire. Many newsagents and supermarkets stock magazines solely on hairstyles and the latest trends. Alternatively, look online to source your favourite style and cut. Some online hairstyling websites even feature a virtual hairstyling application whereby you upload a photograph of your face and sift through various hairstyles to see what they would look like. This is a great tool for those who were previously apprehensive about going short and want to get an idea of the results.
